STAT On 5 January 1985 I discovered that lawn furniture and a barbecue grill had been stolen from my back patio ([redacted] Panama). AS the furniture had been seen on the patio a few days before, I surmise that the theft occurred between 3 and 5 January. Since there were no distinguishing marks on the furniture or the grill, I did not call the Military Police to report the theft. The items were lightweight and easily transportable, so I had little hope of their being traced or recovered.
